PYTHIANS TO DEDICATE

MEMBERS OF ESCANABA LODGE WILL BE HOSTS TO PROMINENT GUESTS MONDAY EVENING

One of the most interesting events ever to occur in this city will be the formal dedication of the new Castle Hall of the Escanaba lodge of Knights of Pythias, on Monday evening. Grand lodge officers and members of Pythian lodges from many cities of the peninsula will come here tomorrow and join with the Escanaba members of the order in a banquet and dedication program. Past Supreme Chancellor Cosgrove, the only living past supreme chancellor of the Pythian order in Michigan and who 26 years ago, instituted the local lodge, will be among the notable guests of the evening, delivering an address in the place of Past Grand Chancellor G. L. Kusk of Bay City, who will be unable to attend.

Over 100 guests from outside of Escanaba are expected to join with the local Pythians and their friends in the affair and make of it a red letter event in the history of the local Pythian lodge.

The formal banquet will be served in the dining quarters at the new lodge room and following which the dedication program will be carried out. Pros. Atty. T. E. Strom will serve as toastmaster of the evening and the dedicatory address will be delivered by H. E. Vande Walker, grand chancellor of the Grand lodge of Knights of Pythias of Michigan. Other guests of the evening and local members will appear in addresses and musical numbers to complete a program that will be particularly enjoyable in all of its features.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT NOT TO COME HERE

Harry St. Louis of the Kings Sons society of the First Presbyterian church last evening received a message from the Indiana Transportation Company of Chicago stating that the company had abandoned their proposed trip north and for that reason would be unable to carry out the agreement for an excursion here on June 1 with the Theodore Roosevelt.

The message gave no reason for the abandoning of the trip north at which time they expected to carry excursions out of several different ports, but stated that a letter of full explanation would follow immediately.

The Kings Sons had already placed on sale the tickets for the excursion and a large number had been sold but those who have made their purchase will have their money refunded by those from whom they purchased the tickets.

HIRN INVINCIBLE AT GLADSTONE GAME

In a contest in which Escanaba had the free hand from the very start the Gladstone high school aggregation met a measurable defeat by the score of 10 to 1 at the upper Bay City yesterday afternoon, in the first game of a high school county league ever arranged in this city.

With Hirn on the mound and doing splendid work for the entire distance, the Gladstone team ate the food that he offered. Five men were struck out by Hirn and five hits were secured on his delivery. The Gladstone pitcher struck out three and Escanaba secured five hits from him.

Steven Murphy of the local team displayed especially brilliant work, both in hitting and when he pulled down a high one in the field position.

W. L. Davidson umpired for Escanaba.

On Decoration day Rapid River will come here for a game.

TAGGERS WERE BUSY

Taggers for the Womans Relief Corps patrolled the business district of the city yesterday and established what it is believed will prove a new record for tag day collections in this city. No effort was made last night following the day's campaign, to determine the total amount of the collection, but assurance was given that a sum sufficient to make possible a proper observance of Memorial Day had been raised.

Charles Cass, who for some time has been employed by the Delta Hardware Company, has entered the draying business and has purchased a modern motor truck for his work. Mr. Cass resigned his position with the hardware company a week ago and opened his dray line business on Wednesday.

BAUM IS A HARD HITTER

Raleigh Baum, of this city, center fielder for the Cadillac team of the Southern Michigan league, in the opening game of the season made a strong bid for his old title as the "hardest hitting outfielder in the league." Against Muskegon in the opening game, the Escanaba lad had a perfect record, in four trips to the plate, driving out a home run, a double and two singles and taking all of the fielding chances that came his way without an error. In addition he was credited with one stolen base.

Mrs. Stangby Visits Old Home
Mrs. Olive Stangby left last night for her native land of Norway and will be absent from her home in this city for three months. Mrs. Stangby has not visited her home in many years and left last night for New York City where she will board an ocean liner for her destination.

Mrs. G. C. Maigetter and children returned yesterday from a month's visit with relatives at Green Bay. Miss Carrie Maigetter of Kewaunee is visiting at the Maigetter home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Coolman and children and Mrs. S. J. Spargo are spending the week end at Swans.

CONCERT THIS P. M.

Members of the Escanaba Military Band will this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the city park give an open air concert for the entertainment of the crowds that will be attracted to the city's lake front. Up to this time the members of the band have appeared in several open air concerts without compensation and have shown to the people of Escanaba a most generous disposition, in sharp contrast to the action of other band organizations in this city of the past. That the work of the members of the band is appreciated is shown by the tremendous crowds attracted at their each appearance.

SCOTT WAS IMPRESSED

According to a statement appearing in the Alpena Echo, Senator Frank D. Scott, of Alpena, candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in the new Eleventh district and who recently completed a preliminary tour of this end of the district, is greatly impressed with Cloverland. Senator Scott's statement to the Echo, upon returning from this district was as follows:

"I have just returned from a trip through the northern part of the district. You will observe that I say 'northern part of the district' and not the 'Upper Peninsula,' because from now on for at least ten years our interests are identical and there ought to be a mutually universal strife for the betterment and welfare of northern Michigan; not below the straits or above the straits, but all together. I met the finest lot of men on this trip that I ever met in my life. I was never more graciously entertained and the sentiment which I have expressed as to 'Northern Michigan' is being generally advanced and accepted by the people who live in the northern counties of this district.

"These northern counties are busy as bees and I certainly enjoyed their aggressive, civic pride and public spirit. Every one is a booster and business seems to be better there than in any other part of the State. Of course being a Republican, I might attribute that to the fact that they are farther away from Washington than we are. However, taken as a whole, I cannot more fittingly recapitulate my ideas and impressions of my trip than to say as time progresses we will all be proud of our new neighbors, and I sincerely hope they will be equally as pleased with us."

DAHLGREN IS THE STAR

Accorded the honor of pitching the opening game of the season at Superior before a record breaking crowd of fans, Cy Dahlgren, former Escanaba pitcher, starred in a comeback stunt and has caused a revival of the report that the big right hander is due for another trip to the majors of this season. The big right hander, according to press reports of the game, had all of the stuff that caused the Cincinnati Nationals to sign him up two years ago and as Dahlgren for several months has been following the straight and narrow path, his friends at Superior are predicting that he will go to the Majors before the close of the season. In the opening game at Superior against Duluth, Dahlgren trimmed his ancient enemies 5 to 1, allowing but five hits and walking 7.

MONDAY LAST DAY OF REGULAR KICKS

Monday will be the last opportunity offered for property owners of Escanaba to appear before the board of review and file protests against assessments levied on their property. After a session that extended until after midnight on Friday night and an all day session yesterday, members of the board believe that they can complete their work on Monday and it will be necessary for those who have not appeared to file protests and the desire to do so, to be present at either the morning or afternoon sessions tomorrow.

VILLA MOVES. A. B. C. IS ACT

REBEL LEADER MARCHES ON MEXICO WHILE ULTIMATUM IS ISSUED TO CARRANZA.

(Special to The Press.)
Paredon, Mexico, May 23.—The main body of Villa's army left here today for Torreon, from whence it will move onto Zacatecas for campaigns in that district. Seventeen trains transported 17,000 cavalry, infantry and artillery.

(Special to The Press.)
Vera Cruz, May 23.—Dr. Aureliano Urrutia, formerly a member of Huerta's cabinet, was taken aboard the transport Hancock this afternoon with his wife and family. Urrutia, who incurred Huerta's displeasure, feared for his life.

(Special to The Press.)
Washington, D. C., May 23.—The United States will bring about the pacification of Mexico peacefully if possible and forcibly if necessary.

"The United States knows that neither the Huerta nor Carranza factions in Mexico are friendly to American prestige in that Republic and that both sides are playing off this element against each other to gain support from the Mexican people. Regardless of this the United States will insist on peace in Mexico. Troops at Vera Cruz will be withdrawn until this is accomplished. Such other steps as may be necessary to this end will be taken." This is a message that was given tonight by the American commissioners at Niagara Falls to the Huerta delegates, and to the Huerta delegates, and through the mediators to Carranza.

Diplomatic efforts to induce Carranza to send delegates to the peace conference have been unavailing. The step taken tonight is in the nature of an ultimatum to the constitutionallists.

Carranza will be informed that in the future any government of Mexico will depend on the present plan of composing of difficulties, between the United States and Latin republics, or between two or more of the Latin republics themselves.

A determination to detail to the mediators and Huerta representatives the full scope of interest which the United States holds in the Mexican situation followed the receipt of a long and important dispatch from the American representatives at Niagara Falls. It is clearly understood here that the object of the frank statement of status quo, is that it should operate as a threat to Carranza, by the United States, but by the mediators themselves, who are essentially friends to all factions in Mexico. In other words Carranza is to be told by the mediators that after tonight's conference he cannot be recognized unconditionally by the United States.

The mediators, of course, will wait for an answer from Carranza. Should Carranza elect to reject mediation and try conclusions with General Funston, it being his fundamental conviction that the United States should not keep its men on Mexican soil, mediation will crumble. Mediation admittedly is dependent on the co-operation of Carranza. Therefore the result of the step taken tonight at Niagara Falls will determine whether it comes to a speedy end, and the pacification of Mexico by force of arms is to follow.

A LONDON AVIATOR IS THOUGHT KILLED

(Special to The Press.)
London, May 23.—A London aviator Gustave Hancl is missing tonight after starting from Calais for a cross channel flight and grave fears are entertained for his safety.

THREE FISHERMEN ARRAIGNED IN COURT

Tom Marcella, Tony Mladenick, Frank LaGinys, all of Gladstone were arraigned in Justice Emil Glaser's court yesterday morning on the charge of illegal fishing. With the production of witnesses by the game warden the lads were convicted and sentenced to pay fines of $15.15 each. All paid up and were released.

The violators had placed a net across a small stream near Gladstone and then going up the stream had driven the fish into it. While doing this they were caught and arrested.

BIG CROP CERTAIN

(Special to The Press.)
Washington, D. C., May 23.—The largest winter wheat crop in the history of the United States is predicted for this year by the department of agriculture. "A combination of the largest acreage ever recorded with a promise of the largest yield per acre ever recorded makes the present condition of winter wheat noteworthy," says a report made public today on the condition of the crop May 1.

The average condition of winter wheat May 1, was 95.9, compared with 95.6 on April 1 and a ten year average of 85.5. "A condition of 95.9 on May 1" says the report, "is indicative of a yield per acre of approximately 17.8 bushels. On the estimated area to be harvested this would produce 630,000,000 bushels, or 20.3 per cent more than in 1913."

DOTSCH IS CANDIDATE

Announcement was made yesterday of the candidacy of Atty. H. R. Dotsch, of this city, for the Republican nomination for the offices of county clerk at the Republican primaries to be held in August of this year. Mr. Dotsch has conducted a preliminary canvass of the county and has received marked encouragement from voters in all parts of the district. Mr. Dotsch has spent practically all of his life in Delta county, being raised at Garden and after completing his law course entered upon the practice of his profession in this city. He served the county several years ago as prosecuting attorney and at different times has been a member of the Delta county board of supervisors. He has an intimate knowledge of the affairs of the county and his legal training exceptionally fits him to discharge the duties of the office for which he is a candidate.

TRADE AT HOME MOVE IS STARTED

Following out a plan conceived by officers of the Escanaba Business Men's Association to promote home buying, officers of that association have mailed to a great many families in the city a special card requesting information as to the extent of outside buying. Without giving their names those who have received the cards are requested to give a list of the articles that they are in the practice of purchasing outside of Escanaba; why they do not patronize home merchants and other information that may make it possible for the association to meet the merchants and dispose of objections that are raised. The inquiry will be surrounded by absolute secrecy as no names will be signed to the cards and will be a part of a general movement to compromise conditions that home buying may become popular with all people who reside in Escanaba.

PLANT TO SUSPEND

MASHEK CHEMICAL WORKS AND STEPHENSON CHARCOAL IRON CO. TO QUIT OPERATION FOR 3 MONTHS

The plants of the Mashek Chemical and Iron Company and the Stephenson Charcoal Iron Company, at Wells, will be closed on June 20 and business will not be resumed for at least three months. The two companies have in stock 1,500,000 pounds of acetate of lime and over 7,000 tons of pig iron, for which there is at present no market.

The action of the local concerns in announcing an early suspension is in line with the action of other iron furnaces and chemical plant owning corporations.

It was announced yesterday by officials of the two companies that the suspension of work will continue through at least three months and run longer, according to market conditions governing their principal products.

Over production and absence of demand is attributed by officials of the local companies as the causes that have made a suspension of work necessary at this time. There is now more acetate of lime in storage by plants in the United States than at any time previous while immense sums of money are tied up in pig iron stocks, for which there is now no steady demand.

Officials of the companies insist that conditions surrounding the market for their products has forced them to operate at a loss for the past several months, until a formidable stock has been piled up and it is necessary that a readjustment of conditions be awaited.

PREPARE TO PRY OFF BASEBALL LID

Preparations for the prying off of the baseball lid in Delta county next week when the first games of the Marquette Delta County League schedule will be played, applicants for places on the local league team this afternoon will clash with the Northern Beauties at South Park. Today's game will be an exhibition affair and no admission fee will be charged. It will be in the nature of a tryout for applicants on the local league team, it being the plan to give practically all of the applicants for places, a trial at some stage of the pasturing program. The game will open at 2 o'clock.

ESCANABA LAD IS VARSITY CATCHER

Kenton Cleary, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cleary, of this city and who is a student at Marquette University, at Milwaukee, broke into prominence as a varsity baseball catcher last week, backstopping for six innings for Marquette against an opposing college team. The Escanaba lad served as catcher for the final six innings of a game when Divine, the university's crack hurler, was in the box. According to press reports of the game Cleary caught a bang up game and in two trips at bat was credited with two sacrifice hits.

THE MEDIATION CONFERENCE

When Huerta refused to make amends for the insult to the American flag at Tampico the United States seized the port of Vera Cruz, and for a time war between this country and the Mexican faction controlled by the dictator seemed not unlikely.

most entirely forgotten. No one is now worrying about whether or not Huerta salutes the flag or how he does it.

Theoretically the two parties are still the United States and the de-facto Huerta government. The Mexican constitutionalists are not directly represented.

The United States, on the other hand, is no longer concerned over the Tampico incident. Her representatives at Niagara will work as disinterested advocates of peace.

Everybody is heartily welcome to these meetings, to any and to all. In addition to these four general meetings, there are gatherings for special groups.

With fifty-five years and lumbago behind him, Palmer, the crack English golfer player, contrived to beat Travers, the crack American.

Seven hundred and fifty aspiring English girls applied for admission to the "beauty chorus" of a London theater.

A Baltimore man was robbed of his money and lost his voice at the same time. It appears that money talks, even in Baltimore, and that when a man loses his roll he is speechless.

Australian burglars held up an auction bridge party and secured about $2,000. The burglar of the antipodes at least has a commendable sense of the fitness of things.

The treasurer of the state of Sonora (Mexico) has been embezzling public funds. And yet some people affect to think that Mexico is not a fully civilized nation!

There is nothing in the world so wonderful as the talent for diplomacy. It is noticed that both President Wilson and Huerta speak very highly of O'Shaughnessy.

An unfortunate weakness helped in the undoing of an organized gang of automobile thieves recently caught in Philadelphia. They kept a diary.

It is stated that the question of restricting the heights of buildings in New York will be carried to the supreme court. They can't go any higher.

Tom Watson has been indicted again. If this didn't happen every week or so people might forget that there ever was such a person.

Penrose, Pinchot, Palmer—the three senatorial candidates in Pennsylvania ought to get along together like three P's in a pod.

If President Wilson didn't make the mistake of really thinking, the politicians might understand him.

The first barge to go through the Panama canal should be stuffed and preserved in the Smithsonian.

Announcements of the Churches

The First Methodist Episcopal Church King D. Beach, pastor.

Mrs. P. A. Lint, musical director. At this church four meetings for people of all ages are held each week.

Another is the Sunday evening worship, with sermon which begins at 10:30. This Sunday morning the pastor of the church will preach from a passage of scripture of which a great scholar said, "There is no voice which has ever been heard, either in heaven or in earth, more exalted, more holy, more fruitful, more sublime."

Another is the Sunday evening worship, with sermon. At this meeting this week the pastor of the church will preach on the subject, "Christian at the Delectable Mountains; some Delights of the Pilgrim on the Way from Sin to the Celestial City."

Everybody is heartily welcome to these meetings, to any and to all. In addition to these four general meetings, there are gatherings for special groups.

The official news of the evacuation was brought here today in a message from General Philippe Angeles, the Constitutional minister of war, to the rebel junta.

Queretaro, already twice famous as the spot where periods of unrest have been concluded in Mexico, is the place the Juarez officials declare will mark the end of the Huerta regime.

The probability that the final battle of the present revolution will be fought there instead of Mexico City will, it is thought by the Constitutionalists, be hailed with delight by foreign nations whose citizens are numerous in the capital. Queretaro lies between San Luis Potosi and Mexico City.

The last battle, the Juarez Constitutionalists do not believe, will be San Luis Potosi. General Torres is said already to hold a position within the outskirts of that town, and it is possible he may occupy the city before the fleeing federalists also may evacuate that point.

No word has been received here regarding the entry of Constitutional troops into Saltillo, and it is not believed here that an immediate movement to shift the main body of Villa's army to that point will be made.

The railroad to Saltillo from Paredon still is an unrepaid condition and the need of haste is not regarded as pressing.

The next move of Villa's army, it is said, undoubtedly will be toward San Luis Potosi.

All the news that's fit to print, you see first in The Press.

The official news of the evacuation was brought here today in a message from General Philippe Angeles, the Constitutional minister of war, to the rebel junta.

Queretaro, already twice famous as the spot where periods of unrest have been concluded in Mexico, is the place the Juarez officials declare will mark the end of the Huerta regime.

The probability that the final battle of the present revolution will be fought there instead of Mexico City will, it is thought by the Constitutionalists, be hailed with delight by foreign nations whose citizens are numerous in the capital. Queretaro lies between San Luis Potosi and Mexico City.

The last battle, the Juarez Constitutionalists do not believe, will be San Luis Potosi. General Torres is said already to hold a position within the outskirts of that town, and it is possible he may occupy the city before the fleeing federalists also may evacuate that point.

No word has been received here regarding the entry of Constitutional troops into Saltillo, and it is not believed here that an immediate movement to shift the main body of Villa's army to that point will be made.

The railroad to Saltillo from Paredon still is an unrepaid condition and the need of haste is not regarded as pressing.

The next move of Villa's army, it is said, undoubtedly will be toward San Luis Potosi.

Social Happenings of the Day

The Do and Dare Party. A large number of local young people will tomorrow evening be attracted to Clark's hall to attend a dancing party arranged by the members of the Do and Dare Club.

The Bark River Dance. Much comment was heard about the city yesterday on the delightful dancing party that was given at Bark River on Friday evening by the members of the Cottage club.

Another of these four meetings in the Bible School session which begins at 9:30 Sunday morning.

The fourth is an informal gathering held on Thursday evening from 7:30 until 8:30, which is spent in Christian conversation, prayer and Bible Reading.

Everybody is heartily welcome to these meetings, to any and to all. In addition to these four general meetings, there are gatherings for special groups.

SYNOPSIS.

Tommy North, returning to his room in Mrs. Moore's boarding house at 120 a. m., discovers the body of Capt. John Hanaka, another roomer, with a knife wound on his breast. Soon after a man upon a man giving the name of Lawrence Wade, who had been heard quarreling with Hanaka. During the excitement a strange woman who gives her name as Miss Estrilla, an invalid, whose brother was a favorite among the other boarders. Wade is arrested. Mrs. LeGrange, who, while plying her trade as a trance medium, had aided Police Inspector Martin McGee several times, calls at his office to tell what she knows of the crime. While she is there, Constance Hanaka, widow of the murdered man, whose existence had been unknown, appears. Mrs. Hanaka, says she had left her husband and disclosed the fact that Wade had been her lover and had killed Hanaka on the night of the murder in an effort to settle their affairs. She admits Wade was in love with her, and returns to Mrs. LeGrange's house. He becomes infatuated at once with Betsy-Barbara, and at her urging prepares to establish the Thomas W. North Advertising Agency. Mrs. LeGrange, with Inspector McGee, examines the house where Hanaka was killed and finds on the fire escape outside Hanaka's window a red shoe button, which she conceals. Mrs. LeGrange secretly examines the shoes of her boarders in search of one of the red buttons. She pretends to go into a trance in Miss Estrilla's room and communes with spirits. Rosalie secures from Inspector McGee the services of an Italian detective, to work under her direction. Rosalie finds evidence to show that Estrilla's real name is Perez and that they formerly lived in Port of Spain. Rosalie goes into another trance in Miss Estrilla's room and gains the young woman's confidence. In succeeding seances Rosalie leads Miss Estrilla to believe she is talking with the spirit of John Hanaka.

"I think that I felt you near me at times." "Did you, John? Did you know I was in your room once when you were asleep? Do you remember how you slept through the fire at home? That was why I dared. There was light on your face. I wanted to kiss it." "If you had—and wakened me!" "If I had—if I only had!" Miss Estrilla wept bitterly; the voice of John answered with reassuring words. "But John, why can you not forgive? Don't you know all?" continued Miss Estrilla when she had control of her voice. "Not all. We do not wake to the spirit at once. I knew nothing until I was looking down on the people who surrounded my body—a long time after. Then there were mists and dark spots. I saw one of the jewels on the floor beside the door. I could not see you—nor Juan. I must know—this is hard—I am growing weak—" "Wait, John, wait!" cried Miss Estrilla, for the first time losing control of herself. "John! Come back! You must come back! I've something to tell you that's killing me! John, John, you must know that he didn't mean to do it!" "With all the will-power that she had, Rosalie kept herself from the slightest movement when she heard that simple startling pronoun, "he." It was time to close the seance. She summoned Laughing-Eyes, who bade Miss Estrilla good-by in a weak falling tone; she settled into her concluding "trance."

In the last two sittings, Rosalie had been awakening from trance of her own accord. Now, she slumbered on for two or three minutes before she let her eyes flutter open; her face resumed expression. Miss Estrilla had controlled her weeping. To Rosalie's cheerful, "Well, was I out long?" she returned no answer. Rosalie looked at her sharply. "I'm afraid you shouldn't do this any more—in your state of nerves," she said. "Only reason I've kept it up was because it seemed to be doing you so much good. But to-day you look all tucked under. An' me—a wet rag is cast on beside my feet in this minute. Tell me—was it long after I stopped talking before I woke up?" "No. It was shorter than ever before." "M-hm! Well, those that know me better than I know myself have watched my trances. They say that when I wake up soon after the spirits go, it means just one thing—it means I'm runnin' down. It's been a strain on me for three sittings, an' now that it's beginnin' to tell on you, we'd both better stop it, I guess." "But Miss Estrilla raised the eyeshade; and Rosalie saw that she was weeping again. "Oh, just another!" she pleaded. "Couldn't you, Mrs. LeGrange? There was something more I wanted to ask. Something," she went on, "which would seem trivial to you. But to me—" "Now, my dear," interrupted Rosalie. "I don't want to know anything about what the spirits are sayin' to you. That's your secret." She appeared to hesitate over a decision. "Now, I'll tell you what I'll do. I've probably got just about one more sitting in me, an' then I'll be through. I'll sit in touch with the spirit to-night, an' I'll set with you to-morrow for the last time this spell. Then I must quit."

"Oh, a Customer!"

The thought that he would see Betsy-Barbara in office hours as well as out rendered it very feeble. So Betsy-Barbara fell to work on the second-hand typewriter; and she had so far progressed that she could write a passably good business letter in four attempts and a morning's time. On the scene of brisk business activity suddenly entered Rosalie LeGrange. As she stepped into the door, she was large-eyed, serious, a-quiver with inner intensity. She broke into a smile, however, as she surveyed the Thomas W. North Advertising Agency at work. Both Tommy and his amateur stenographer had heard the steps; but each, as people will do when they are intent, failed to look up from his uncompleted line until startled by Rosalie's: "My! Such a pair of little workers!" Tommy grinned. "Ah, a customer!" he said; "business had at the boarding-house? Anything I can do to advertise you? I recommend our A. A. Campaign—cheap and fetching for establishments of your class. How's this for a line: 'Our eggs straight from the hen—our coffee grew on a vine—our boarders stay till they die.'"

CHAPTER XV.

A Stroke of Luck.

We come now to the most crowded day in all the crowded life of Rosalie LeGrange. We begin, indeed, with Rosalie LeGrange out of the stage picture. We are in the office of the Thomas W. North Advertising Agency in lower Fifth Avenue. Tommy North sits at a cheap but neat desk, brand-new like all the furnishings of that little old office. He is laboring for an accurate and arresting headline to proclaim the safety, and yet the deadliness, of a new automatic revolver. At the typewriter desk in the corner sits Betsy-Barbara Lane, expertly tapping the keys with two fingers of her right hand and one of her left. And as Betsy-Barbara smiles triumphantly over this fair line, frowns at that foul one, purses her lips over the other hard combination, her radiance fills and illuminates the Thomas W. North Advertising Agency.

From inception to interior furnishings, it is all Betsy-Barbara. Here was the choice and placing of the green Mission furniture. Here was the selection of the pictures, their arrangement in relation to the wall spaces. That it might be a pleasant place for work, she picked out prints of her favorite pictures—the Countess Potolka, the Baby Stuart and the Duchess of Devonshire. To give it a business air, she added a framed photograph of the Union Station in St. Louis. Further, Betsy-Barbara found the most spectacular specimens of advertising design executed by Thomas W. North, set them in passe-partouts with her own hands, and hung them just where they would invite the eye and confidence of customers. She remembered also the soul needs of Mr. Thomas W. North himself. In the interstices of the decorations she placed such mottoes as she deemed best for him, as "Do It Now;" "Industry is Happiness;" and, most significant of all to one who understood the reason for the Thomas W. North Agency, "It's What You Do After Business Hours That Gives You Nervous Prostration." Finally, to all these decorations she had added more and more frequently of late her own illuminated self.

For life, what time she was not busy with the solace of Constance, hung heavy nowadays on the capable hands of Betsy-Barbara. Just when she realized that what she needed was work, she found that the correspondence of the Thomas W. North Agency was getting greater than Tommy himself could handle. She announced at once her intention of learning the typewriter and doing that work herself—all for the good of the enterprise. To this proposal, Tommy entered a protest of conscience; but ed the corner from Wall street and the driver began to inquire for pier 1645, Captain Baldwin was as near to profanity as his convictions allowed. As for the mate, he had no convictions which prevented him from expressing himself to the limits of his vocabulary, over that unlucky accident, that tumble into the hatches, which had sent a newly-signed Italian member of the crew to Bellevue hospital nursing a broken arm. With all the heaven-condemned things they had to do before the improper old scow could be cleared in the morning, how the sin and sulphur (the mate inquired of the bright air) were they going to dig up another sailor to satisfy the port regulations?

CHAPTER XVI. The Last Seance. Fortunately for her plans, only three of Rosalie LeGrange's regular boarders ever came home to luncheon—Constance, Betsy-Barbara and Professor Noll. Of these, two were disposed of for the day. Professor Noll found three strangers already placed and eating. Two young men, powerful and slow-moving, sat at either side of the hostess. At the other end of the table, in Miss Harding's accustomed seat, was a matronly woman, gray-haired but alert of motion and eye. "Mr. Kennedy—Mr. Hunter—Mrs. Leary—I want to introduce Professor Noll. The professor is one of my regular boarders. This lady and these gentlemen are transients; they'll be with us just a few days," said Rosalie LeGrange. The two men nodded and fell to their luncheon, of which they consumed vast quantities. Mrs. Leary, however, smiled upon him an experienced smile.

"Mrs. Leary," pursued Rosalie LeGrange, "has got some foreign views I'm sure you'd like to see. You won't be droppin' in this afternoon, will you?" "No," said Professor Noll. "sorry, I'm making up the paper today. I won't get home until just before my dinner. My habit," he added, addressing Mrs. Leary, "always to dine just at seven. The human intestinal system is a machine, admirable, well-balanced, nicely calculated to its uses. Now the minute study of scientific management has proved that a machine—" And so Professor Noll, having mounted his hobby, rode blithely away upon it; and Mrs. Leary, with all the ready tact of the experienced police matron that she was, vaulted to the pommel and rode with him. Rosalie had learned all she wanted to know. Professor Noll would not trouble her again that afternoon. The chimes of the Metropolitan tower rang the hour of two. At the first stroke, Rosalie, as one who finds relief in action, ran down the basement steps and opened the back door. Inspector Martin McGee, dressed in plain clothes and carrying a small bag, was waiting outside. "All set?" he asked under his breath. "Everything's ready," replied Rosalie as she led the way across the basement.

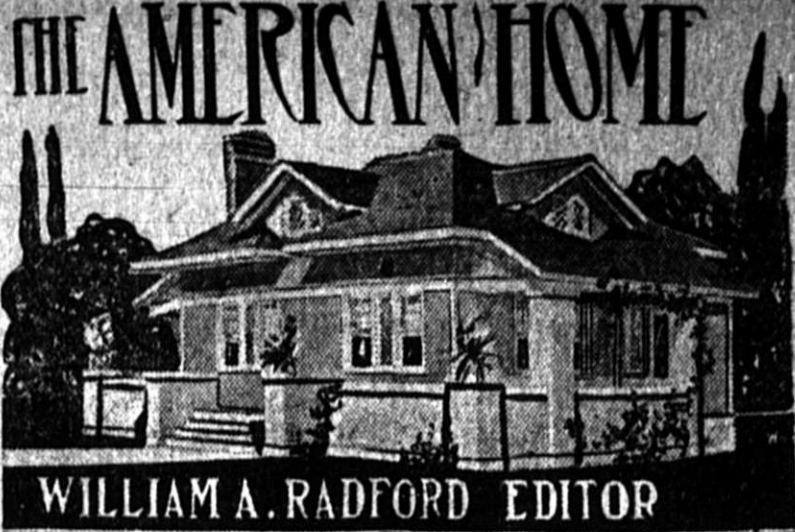

But Inspector McGee stopped her at the stairway. "Say, it's all right to let you have your head and do things your own way. Grimaldi reported back for other duty at one o'clock, just as you told him. But I'm running risks when I take your word that you'll deliver this Estrilla when we want him—or I would be, if it was anybody but you. Why can't you tell me?" "See here, Marty McGee," said Rosalie. "I've got ready to put one of the biggest feathers in your cap you ever wore. An' I've done it by golly! my own woman's way. If it hadn't been for me, you'd been barkin' up the wrong tree yet. I've acted this way because I do things woman-fashion, an' there ain't a single mutt man alive that would ever say I was on the right track—until I delivered the goods. The hardest thing I know is to tell what I know—that's a habit. Are you goin' to believe me when I say that I can put my hands on this Estrilla whenever I please? Are you goin' to leave that to me, just like you've left the whole thing so far?"

WILLIAM A. RADFORD EDITOR

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF CHARGE on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 187 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

This is a new modification of the old cottage house idea that is being built in some sections of the middle West. The low roof with a wide projection gives the house a different finish, a sort of plain, aristocratic neatness that everybody likes. The house may be built of wood, brick, cement or stone. It is often built of wood to the eaves and the gables plastered with cement mortar on metal lath. You can get five rooms in a cottage of this style and secure more comfort for the investment than you can get from a five-room, two-story house, and it looks well when nicely kept.

Generally speaking, cottages are now being built more than ever before, not that they are new, but because they are especially adapted to the suburbs and country places. The women seem to like a cottage house after they become accustomed to it, partly because it is easier to do the housework where the rooms are all on one floor, but at the same time, there is less excuse to neglect things. We have all had the experience of going through a house unexpectedly when the downstairs was neat and clean enough, but upstairs presented a very disorderly appearance. Profuse apologies usually accompanied such an excursion, but the fact is a woman puts off going upstairs to attend to the housework as long as possible. The rooms are out of sight, so that there is not the same incentive to keep it looking nice.

on low ground, and in town you have a sewer, but if you strike a spring or the indications of damp ground you can for a few extra dollars have a course of drain tile laid outside of the wall that will carry away any water that might accumulate. Then a plastering of cement mortar on the outside of the wall acts as a further assurance against dampness. One of the greatest annoyances in a house is a damp cellar. You can avoid it by a little personal attention when the house is being built, but it is hard to correct the difficulty afterwards. Another advantage in a house like this is the ease with which it may be heated by placing a small furnace in the cellar. The furnace should be put under the dining room, near the big chimney; then six short pipes will carry the heat to each room in the house, including the bathroom and about five tons of coal will keep it warm all winter. The size of the house is 41 feet in width by 25 feet in length, not very large on the ground for a cottage, still you get five good rooms and they are well arranged for convenience.

Curious Condensations. Egypt in 1912 exported onions to the value of $1,920,257. In the last year one aviator was killed for every 62,000 miles flown. The largest roof span in the world is at St. Pancras station, London. There is a man in New York who makes a good living by buying worn-out rugs from dentists for the particles of platinum and gold they contain. Since 1870 the rocket type of life-saving apparatus has saved the lives of more than 9,000 shipwrecked persons on the coasts of Great Britain. It is estimated that 90 per cent of industrial accidents can be eliminated, 60 per cent by safety devices and lies to settle down and make a home. In cities the practice of living in rented apartments is so common that the home feeling is sacrificed for the questionable advantage of being near the center of the city. This has led to the habit of moving from house to house, or from one flat to another until moving may be almost characterized as a national mania. The members of a family soon get tired of a flat on a noisy street in the city and they move into another flat in the vain hope of finding something more comfortable. You seldom find among such people the contented home sentiment that means so much to the old-fashioned people who occasionally meet in country places, where they have lived for a number of years, in a permanent home around which the true home sentiment has grown and developed while the children budded into youth and blossomed into young manhood and womanhood. The divinest earthly heritage is a good, comfortable home, whether it be large or small; if it be well managed, it is the only satisfactory way of living. What I particularly wish to see is more little homes like this, homes for the common people, the ones Abraham Lincoln said the Lord must love because he made so many of them.

When Women Vote. Church—I see Chicagoans are agitating for a new city charter. Gotham—Sure thing. You see the women are voting out there now and they think the charter should have a few frills and boucens on it.

Present Tense. Gibbs—I tell you, no one can foot my wife. Dibbs—Then how did you get her? Philadelphia Public Ledger.

DOCTORS' ODD DEATH REPORT

Many Physicians' Certificates Disclose Aberrations of Sense in Giving Cause of Death. The chief statistician of Wisconsin, in examining death certificates filed by physicians with the state board of health, has discovered and disclosed some of more than local interest. They reveal aberrations of sense and science in the diagnosis of disease and the causes of death as to merit consideration from reformers who wish to put nearly every act of human life under medical supervision. A few instances must serve to illustrate the nature of a multitude. One report is this: "Went to bed feeling well, but woke up dead." Another says: "Do not know the cause of death, but patient fully recovered from ill illness." A third reported: "Last illness caused by chronic rheumatism, but was cured before death." Still another: "Deceased never had been fatally sick." And this: "Died suddenly; nothing serious." Some reports are mere absurdities, such as: "Kicked by a horse shod on the left kidney." "Died suddenly at the age of one hundred and three. To this time he had fair to reach a ripe old age." "Deceased died from blood poison caused by a broken ankle which is remarkable as the automobile struck him between the lamp and the radiator." A mother is reported to have "died in infancy."

The significance of these reports lies in the fact that they emanate from the members of a learned profession dealing with the practice of that profession. They serve to caution those who are eager to clothe these local doctors with authority to say who shall marry and who shall not. Nature Faker. "How's this?" demanded the judge. "You have your husband arrested for assault, and yet you refuse to testify against him." "Well, your honor," replied Mrs. McCarly, whose heart had softened. "I ain't sure 'twas him done it." "But you stated positively he punched you in the eye." "Thrice for ye. Some one did punch me in th' eye, but I ain't sure who, for me back was turned at the time."

CHAS. S. MELLEN SUGGESTS MONOPOLY

Washington, May 23.—An absolute monopoly of transportation under government regulation and control was suggested by Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven railroad, to the interstate commerce commission today as the solution of the American railroad problem.

"To get efficiency and economy," declared Mr. Mellen, "there must be a monopoly, and that monopoly is certain to be the United States government."

A little later the former head of the New Haven system remarked: "Every time a railroad official comes to Washington he has to take off his hat to some government official."

Answers Without Hesitation.

Mr. Mellen responded to the grueling line of questions fired at him by Chief Counsel Joseph W. Folk vigorously and promptly, never hesitating a second for a word. He told the story of his steamship transactions with Charles W. Morse.

Concerning these steamship transactions, Mr. Mellen explained that he felt it desirable to confer with Col. Roosevelt, who then was president of the United States. He told the president that he had received an offer of $200,000 from Morse for the New Haven steamship holdings and felt inclined to accept it, because thus the New Haven would be able to turn the property into cash. Mr. Roosevelt, he said, apparently was anxious that Morse should be checked in his ambition to acquire a monopoly of the steamship lines, and urged Mr. Mellen not to sell.

In the acquisition of various trolley lines in New England, Mr. Mellen said he had proceeded on the theory, that transportation, particularly thru densely populated regions, might better be handled on electrified lines than on steam roads. He had been convinced that the diversion of much of the traffic of steamroads to electrified lines would be more economical, the rates lower and the service generally more satisfactory to the public.

Former Magistrate Witt.

Mr. Mellen's testimony was full of bright paragraphs. Concerning the domination of J. Pierpont Morgan over the New Haven properties, he was asked:

"You regard control by one man as a good thing."

"That is a misnomer. No one man could control it. I had more bosses when I was president of the New Haven at a salary of $60,000 than when I was a clerk at $50 a month."

Then came this one:

"What would the meetings of the directors of the New Haven have been like without Mr. Morgan?"

"About as tame as a lot of cows without a bull."

Mr. Mellen was then asked about the New Haven plan to take over the Merchant's & Miner's line.

"Now, what was done about that proposition?"

"The Panama canal act passed by the congress," responded Mr. Mellen, "prohibited railroads from owning and operating steamship lines. The enactment of that law caused the death of our proposition while it was yet 'abornin'."

Mr. Mellen repeated the testimony given about a year ago regarding the $102,000 profit he made on the sale of the New Haven stock that was turned over to him to be put on the market so that it could be listed on the New York Stock exchange.

"And that was the famous $100,000 that I gave to Republican campaign funds," added Mr. Mellen. "The money was sent to Cornelius N. Bliss."

Says He Was "Fired."

"Under what circumstances did you leave the New Haven?"

"I was practically fired."

Questioned as to his salary, Mr. Mellen said that at the time of his retirement it was $54,000 a year. "I started at $50,000," he said, "and later this was raised to $60,000. When the salaries of all employees were cut 10 per cent. I cut myself to $54,000."

"Did you have any relations with public officials?"

"I always tried hard to keep away from them. I want to say there is not so much effort on the part of the railroads to have relations with elected officials as there is on the part of those officials to have relations with the railroads."

"Do you think your salary of $60,000 was too much?"

"Yes, I do. I think $25,000 is enough for any railroad president."

"Why didn't you start that reform yourself?"

"Well, I thought I was entitled to what others were getting when I was given the $50,000. I never asked for the raise to $60,000 and even protested against it."

Mr. Mellen said he firmly believed that Mr. Morgan, had he lived, could have funded the floating debt of the New Haven. He declared that it would take $100,000,000 to do this.

MOOSE CHASED BY BIG FOREST FIRES

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 23.—Deserting the wilds of the Canadian forests, probably because of the forest fires, swimming twice across St. Mary's river, traveling some of the principal streets in the city, tearing down fences and raising a general commotion in all the yards which it crossed, and finally to be chased by a bunch of newsboys through the government canal park, was the unusual experience of a big cow moose which visited the Soo between 4:30 and 5:00 o'clock this morning.

It was an extraordinary occurrence and something which has not happened in the Soo for a long time. Persons who saw the moose declare that it swam from the Canadian shore, landed at Perry's dock and from there followed the river up until it came to the government park. Coming up to Portage avenue it was apparently frightened and took to Ridge street. After running about on Ridge street it is said to have crossed several yards in getting back to Portage avenue and then to the government park, where it would occasionally stop and graze.

Here is where the newsboys got in their fun. In hopes of chasing the big moose into the lock so that they could capture it, the boys began their chase and so frightened the animal that it ran wildly through the park and with one long leap plunged into the river below the locks and hit out for the Canadian shore.

It is thought by many that the moose probably lost a calf, which was another cause for her acting so strangely. However, those who witnessed the actions of the big moose declare that it was a sight which they will long remember.

129,000 PERSONS VISIT TOMB IN 1913

Washington, May 23.—One hundred and twenty-nine thousand persons visited Washington's tomb at Mount Vernon last year, according to reports to the Mount Vernon Ladies' association made public today.

That the mansion at Mount Vernon had been re-shingled only twice between 1743 and 1913 was revealed in the report of Superintendent Dodge that occurred in 1785 and 1860. The shingles employed in the last complete repairs were hand cut from cypress and of the same size as those used in 1749.

The regents and vice regents of the association expected to follow their annual custom of attending the old Ponick church today, occupying Washington's pew.

Water Talk No. 5

To the Citizens and Taxpayers of Escanaba:

The purity of the water since the installation of the Filtration Plant must be unquestioned. The most scientific and latest methods of purification are being used. Your City Bacteriologist knows regularly the character of the water and the plant is under the inspection of the State Sanitary Engineer and Board of Health. It will probably be interesting to many citizens to know that during the Summer months the consumption of water in the parks and public buildings is almost twice as great as that of any other City in the State of Michigan the size of Escanaba. All this water has been supplied thus far without cost to the City. In times past bills were submitted to the City covering the water consumed by the City Parks and for sprinkling, but the payment of same has never been insisted upon, particularly since we have taken over the management of the Company. The franchise does provide for water to be furnished free to the public buildings of the City. It does not say that payment shall not be made for the water used in the parks and for sprinkling. However, we have not considered up to this time that this was a matter for discussion, preferring to wait until we had properly developed the service. We desire to serve the interests of the City at all times and any assistance given by the City authorities or the community at large will be much appreciated by the North Michigan Water Company.

In 1886, long before the City had grown to its present size, the water system was installed with a pumping plant, taking the water from Green Bay through a twelve-inch intake pipe about 500 feet long, the water being received in a large pump well with sand bottoms, through which some infiltration water was added. In 1890, a second twelve-inch intake pipe going farther into the lake was added to increase the supply, and water pumped from both pipes into the filtration beds. With the growth of the City and extension of the sewerage system, the sewage from such was run into the lake near these intakes and contamination resulted. In 1904 a new intake pipe twenty inches in diameter, over 2,700 feet long, with an intake crib 60 feet in depth, was laid and the old intake pipes discontinued. This large pipe, therefore, brought the water in a great distance from out in the Bay and bettered the supply. To insure pure water a modern filtration plant was constructed in 1909. This filtration plant is now in operation and consists of a 400,000 gallon capacity concrete continuous flow sedimentation basin, into which the water is pumped, and gravitates into rectangular concrete mechanical filters, consisting of eight units, each thirteen feet by twenty feet, and eight feet deep. Thirty inches of filter sand overlies 12" of selected gravel and all the water goes through these sedimentation basins thus being purified and washed. These eight filters have a working capacity of 6,000,000 gallons per day. Each day the water taken from the Bay is analyzed and after it is purified, it is again analyzed. The Company has its own Bacteriologist at the Plant, testing the water from time to time to insure its purity before it is pumped into the mains of the City. A summary of the results of such analyses is sent regularly to the City Bacteriologist, who not only has supervision of tests and purity, but has free access to the Filtration Plant at all times. Every gallon of water is pumped twice, first into the filters and then into the City mains. Up to the Winter of 1913 two 1,000,000 gallon pumps and one 3,000,000 gallon pump supplied the pressure necessary for distribution, a total capacity of 5,000,000 gallons per day, with a pumpage varying with the season, of from 1,000,000 to 4,000,000 gallons daily.

"There Is a House With a Bathroom" was an expression at one time calculated to arouse interest, but now, conditions are entirely different. To build a house without a bathroom merely raises a question as to the good judgment of the builder. People know that he has either not considered or else misjudged the importance that an up-to-date bathroom has in increasing the value of the house, both as to renting and selling value.

For the finest plumbing equipment at reasonable cost we recommend "Standard" plumbing fixtures and will be pleased to show you the many artistic designs in which they are made. Ask for illustrated booklet.

STUDENTS HAVE LAUGH ON NEWSPAPER MAN

Milwaukee, Wis., May 23.—Marquette University students were still laughing today over the experience of a student in the journalism department. In this department the students are taken through Milwaukee newspaper plants in the evening and sometimes are sent out on runs with the reporters.

This particular student chose to accompany the "hotel man" on his rounds. He skimmed over the registers in several places looking for possible interviews and finally entered the Wisconsin.

"By George, there's Loeb," said the reporter to the novice. "Big New York banker, you know! You interview him while I look over the register for some others."

The student blushed and hesitated but his experienced comrade drove him on with the assurance that it was easy. The novice approached the would be great man nervously, stuttered out his intentions to secure an interview. His victim was kindness itself. He readily talked regarding the federal reserve system and what New York men thought of it. He talked of panics and their causes, he talked of Wall street and its troubles and joys. He talked political economy and touched on most financial topics while the new reporter covered his pad with scribbling and almost wore out a lead pencil.

The interview finally ended and the novice, conscious that he had secured a front page story, hurried back to the newspaper office without waiting for the companion who had started him.

Until 1 o'clock in the morning the youth sweated over a typewriter while he ground out two columns of quotations from "Loeb, the great New York banker."

The next morning he went over the front page twice but failed to locate his story. Somewhat angrily he searched the inside pages but failed to find his story. Considerably aroused he called the newspaper office for an explanation.

"Loeb? What Loeb? Oh, that story you wrote the other morning. Yeh, fine story. Only trouble is you were talking to a traveling man instead of a banker. Good traveling man all right, but don't know much about financial matters. All he can do to squeeze an expense account past his house."

The student has recovered from his "peeve" now and says that he's a real reporter since none of the "big guns can scare him."

2 TO QUIT 1 TO OPEN

Although it is reported that the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company, will close two of its peninsula furnaces in June, it is rumored that the Kipling furnace of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company will soon be placed in blast after being idle for some time. Of the plans of the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical Company an exchange says:

Between June 15 and July 1, two of the Lake Superior Iron and Chemical company's furnaces are to go out of blast. At about the same time, two of the plants which have been idle for the past few months will again be put in commission.

The company's largest plants, with a capacity of between 2,000 and 3,000 tons per month, at Newberry, is to go out of blast shortly after June 15. The Manistique plant will be shut down a little later, perhaps about July 1, for a period of a year. The particularly discouraging condition of the iron market is given as the primary contributing cause of shutting down at these plants. During the time that they are out of blast extensive repairs will be made at each establishment.

The iron market is the lowest right now that it has been for years, and the furnace men are inclined to be deeply pessimistic. They anticipate a continuance of the depression throughout the year.

Nearly 200 men are employed at the company's plant at Newberry, and but slightly less than that number at the Manistique furnace. Many of these men will have to be let go.

It is expected that about the middle of next month, the plant at Ashland, which was damaged by fire about a month ago, will be ready to resume operations. The company is now negotiating for material for the erection of a larger and more modernly equipped plant at that place. Work will be resumed at the plant at Elk Rapids, Mich., which has been out of blast for the past few months.

The closing of the Newberry plant will mean a curtailment of between 2,000 and 3,000 tons of iron a month. The alcohol manufactured at the plant aggregates 35,000 gallons monthly, and the acetate production amounts to 30,000 pounds a day.

The alcohol market will not, it is thought, be affected by the closing of the several furnaces. While large quantities are produced at the plants of the Lake Superior Iron and Chemical company and the Pioneer Iron company's plants, it constitutes only a drop in the bucket of the vast amount of alcohol being made. The depression in the production of ace-

WEDS THREE DAYS AFTER DIVORCE

Menominee, Mich., May 23.—Three days after his securing a divorce from Truly Shattuck an actress, Stephen A. Douglas, manager of the Jones Speedometer company, Detroit, a former Menominee man, took another wife Monday in Chicago. The new Mrs. Douglas was Mrs. Mildred Lenebaker of Detroit. She is a petite blonde, a widow and has a daughter, Helen, 14 years old.

Not Old Time Romance.

It is denied all along the line that Mr. Douglas' latest venture is the outcome of a long romance. The bride's mother denies it; her sister denies it; the girls with whom she worked for years in the office of the Parisian laundry, Detroit, deny it.

They say that Mr. Douglas and Mrs. Lenebaker had known each other but 18 months or two years. Dr. Douglas called frequently at the Oberstadt home. Occasionally he called at the Parisian laundry.

About a week ago Mrs. Lenebaker resigned her place at the laundry, called on Mrs. Harry Barrie and she confided that she was about to be taken to the altar again.

"But she wouldn't tell me who the happy man was to be," said Mrs. Barrie.

The marriage took place in Chicago Monday. Mrs. Lenebaker had been visiting there for several days and Mr. Douglas joined her Saturday. He took out a license in the morning and several hours later, admitted that the ceremony had been performed. But he was inclined to be angry that the newspaper knew anything about it.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas are registered at the Hotel La Salle.

First Wife Known Here.

Miss Truly Shattuck from whom Douglas was divorced is a well known opera star. As Douglas' wife she visited Menominee on several occasions. Douglas is the son of Mrs. Susan Douglas, first woman school teacher here. He secured a divorce from his actress wife on ground of desertion.

NEGRO HERO IN NADEAU FIRE

Menominee, Mich., May 23.—Nadeau is today recovering from the flames which swept away a greater portion of the village, entailing an approximate loss of $25,000, and possibly as high as $35,000. When the Marinette fire department with a fire engine arrived most of the business district lay in ashes.

In places the fire burned fiercely

LADDERS FOR ALL SLEEPERS

Chicago, May 23.—With a new ladder to the upper berths will humanity be less captious about sleeping in "the uppers" shall all Pullman and tourist sleepers be provided with the new ladder and what will they do about the price? Here is a query that is troubling the officials who furnish sleeping accommodations for the traveling public. For first reports are that ascending to the "uppers" has lost its adventure and is not such a scramble. Someone discovered that the principal trouble with the old style ladders was that they were not high enough and a new kind was made that almost would serve for the high dive, such as boys delight in in haymows. The ladder is not a ladder at all but carpeted steps. They were first used in cars on the Canadian Northern in Canada and the report of R. L. Fairbairn, the general passenger agent was this: "This not only provides a perfectly safe arrangement for getting into the upper berth, but is more private and accessible than the old type. Men are outspoken regarding the ease and comfort now afforded in climbing in and out of the upper berth, and one or two ladies who have tried it say they are more than pleased."

and, fanned by a strong wind, it is probable that greater damage would have been caused had not the Marinette help arrived when it did to take charge of the situation.

Negro Actor Proves Hero.

Out of a flaming building an unknown negro actor emerged a hero. Spectators were horror-stricken when a small boy appeared in the window of a burning home. A member of a negro minstrel company, playing in the town the night before rushed into the fire-ridden structure and carried the child to safety.

To one old Frenchman, at one time a fireman in a Canadian city, the smell of battle smoke to a warrior. He forgot himself in the excitement and worked with the department in an effort to stop the flames. He worked with the enthusiasm and vim of the days when such work was his means of livelihood. He saved a great deal of property for other people, but while he was doing it, the fire attacked his own home and it burned to the ground with all its contents. Some one told him that his own house was afire and he rushed to the scene arriving in time to save one undershirt and a pair of trousers.

THE TRAGEDY OF THE TIGERS AND THE POWER OF HYPNOTISM.

Chauncy Depew was at the bottom of all the trouble; not the once favorite son of New York, but his namesake, one of the handsomest double-striped royal Bengal tigers ever captured. Depew was the central figure in the group which Miller, the trainer of tigers, had worked so hard to educate, and it was his rebellion which made the teacher's labors of years come to naught. Late in the season, after months spent in giving the finishing touches to their education while they were with a small part of the show which was exhibited near Cleveland, the tigers were brought to Coney Island; a group of eight magnificent beasts, all jungle bred and each worthy of a place in any menagerie. Perhaps it was the discomfort of the journey in the small traveling cages, possibly the change in the surroundings and the nearness of the other animals excited them; but whatever the cause, there was trouble in the narrow runway at the back of the dens when they entered it to go to the exhibition cage for their first Coney Island appearance.

The sound of their snarling and growling, the reports of pistol shots and the cracking of training whips caused a sensation of uneasiness in the audience until the first tiger bounded through the door at the back of the cage, closely followed by a half-dozen others. Dangerous beasts they looked as they threw themselves against the stout bars, which rattled from the impact of their great bodies, and the front seats of the auditorium were quickly vacated by the audience. The noise in the runway continued, but the deep throaty growls which came from behind the dens were of a different quality from the snarling and rapping of the seven beasts in the exhibition cage, and when the last of the tigers appeared in the doorway the first arrivals made renewed efforts to escape through the bars.

It was Depew; not the good-natured-looking great cat whose "I-have-eaten-the-canary" expression and smug whiskers had suggested his name, but a jungle tiger who had "gone bad," and as the animal trainers call it, and who stood for a moment in the doorway, wrathfully surveying his frantic companions and selecting a victim. Froth was dripping from his snarling lips, his small eyes were blazing like two points of flame, the hair on his neck and back stood up like bristles, and his great tail struck the door-casing resounding whacks, as he lashed it from side to side. Only a moment he stood there, and then the great striped body hurled through the air as if shot from a catapult, and covering a good 20 feet in the spring it landed fair on Bombay, one of the largest tigers in the group. The aim was a true one and the sound of breaking bone mingled with a scream of pain from his victim, as Bombay sank under the weight of the blow, his cervical vertebrae crushed between Depew's powerful jaws.

It was evident that all training had been forgotten, that fear of anything so puny as man had departed from the minds of the tigers, and a groan went up from the audience when the door was opened and quickly closed behind Miller, the trainer, who stood, whip and training rod in hand, in the cage with the maddened animals.

Depew was still crouched on the body of his victim, biting at the neck and growling ferociously, his tail lashing from side to side. Miller never took his eyes from him and kept between him and the door as he called the others by name and tried to regain control of them. One tiger after another was released, glad of the opportunity to escape, as the door to the runway was opened at Miller's signal, and only Depew, the body of Bombay and the trainer occupied the cage.

The other tigers had entered into a general free fight in the runway, but the scene of their blood-bathing was un-headed in the excitement of the contest in the exhibition cage. Depew rose as Miller cracked his whip and approached him, and made a rush which the trainer met with his pronged training rod, driving it hard between the widely opened jaws while his whip rained blows upon the tiger's face. But he was only checked for a moment, and under his fiercer attack the trainer was forced to give ground. They were so close that the tiger could not spring, but he struck savagely with his great forepaws and tried again and again to pass the guard which Miller maintained with the training rod, using it as a fence uses a foil. It was an unequal contest and the trainer realized that he was beaten; Depew would not be driven from the cage. The useless training whip was discarded and a savage rush from the tiger was met by a pistol shot in the face, blank cartridge, of course, but effective for a moment. Five more shots followed in quick succession and the trainer backed quickly toward the door, when his foot slipped, he was on his back, and Depew, quick to seize the advantage, stood over him.

Every keeper connected with the show stood about the cage with the Roman candles, fire extinguishers, pistols and irons which are always kept in readiness, and any or all of them would have willingly entered to rescue the man, but experience has taught them that two cannot work together in a cage with animals. They were quick to act and a stream of water under heavy pressure from the fire hose struck the tiger in the side, exploding fireworks scorched his skin, the din of revolver shots was in his ears, while the wads from the cartridges stung him, but he seemed conscious only of the prostrate form beneath him.

Animal trainers need to think quickly and to seize the slightest moment of hesitation or indecision on the part of their pupils if they wish to be long-lived, and Miller, as he fell, had thrown his useless pistol out of the cage and uttered the one word "Load!" There was no time for that, but Tudor, seeing that the trainer had one arm free, threw his own pistol through the bars and it slid across the floor of the cage straight as a die to the outstretched hand. It was a time when fractions of a second count and Depew's hesitation robbed him of his revenge. The opened jaws were within a foot of the trainer's throat when the muzzle of the pistol went between them, and Depew, coughing and choking, drew back, his throat scorched by the burning powder, his eyes momentarily blinded by the stream from a fire extinguisher, while Miller struggled to his feet.

"People who see the crowds at my show think that I must coin money," said the proprietor as he joined the press agent and the stranger after the performance. "But that accident in the arena tonight means a loss of $50,000 to me."

"Isn't that a high figure, even if they all die?" asked the stranger, who had been doing a little mental arithmetic.

"For those eight, yes, although a trained tiger is worth all sorts of money, but I have purchased 23 in all for that group, and the others have been killed one by one, fighting among themselves. They average over a thousand apiece, for I bought only the best, and figure up the cost of their keep, transportation and trainer's salaries for three years and you will find that I am not far out. That is the difficulty of the show business in America, the public demands so much. A sensation—the realization that every animal in the cage is a wild animal and that he is liable to remember it at any minute—is what holds attention. That is why I always use jungle animals when I can get them, for, although they can be as well trained, they always perform under protest and it makes it exciting. But the losses from fighting among themselves make it mighty expensive to keep up the big groups which the American public demands."

"That's one of the things which drove me out of the show business," said the press agent as he set his empty glass on the table and signaled to the waiter. "A guy named Merritt and myself had a snake show in New York a few years ago which presented the most complete collection of reptiles ever gotten together, for it contained specimens of every species of wriggler known to herpetology and a good many that were not described in the books. That man Merritt was an inventive genius and had the California sharp, Burbank, beaten a mile when it came to inventing new species. When business was dull he'd take a lot of common, ordinary snakes into the back room and with a bottle of peroxide of hydrogen and an assortment of aniline dyes he would bring out albinos and spotted and striped snakes which made the scientists open their eyes and kept 'em busy inventing new Latin names.

"His biggest success was 'The Great Two-horned Rhinoceros Serpent,' which made 'em all sit up for a month, and if I hadn't seen Merritt working over a common box-constrictor with a pair of shark's teeth and a dish of bird lime it would have fooled me. That snake was proud of the horns which Merritt glued on his head, too, and he used to chase the other snakes around the cage and butt 'em like a giddy billy-goat. But in spite of all his ingenuity in originating new varieties, business was dropping off, for the public demanded quantity as well as quality and we had skinned the local snake market clean. We were sitting in the office one day, figuring on where we could get additions to our collection, when a stout, red-faced little man who had 'sea captain' written all over him came in and asked if we wanted any more snakes. Merritt allowed that we did if he had the snakes and asked where we could inspect them.

"Well, I've got one that I brought from Borneo and he's on a ship down in the harbor," says the captain. "We won't argue none about the price, for if you'll come down and take him away you can have him for nothing." That made Merritt a little suspicious and he asked the captain if it were his ship.

"I reckoned it was until two days ago, when that snake broke loose, loosen he seems to own it and not a man jack of the crew will go below. I've tried to shoot him, but the beggar's too quick, and I want to discharge my cargo, so if you ain't afraid to tackle him, come on."

"Me afraid! Me?" says Merritt throwing out a chest. "Why, man alive, I'm the only living snake charmer who ever dared handle the dangerous Two-horned Rhinoceros Serpent, and do you think I'd weaken before a common Borneo python?"

"I dunno whether you will or not until I see you try," says the captain. "Just watch me. Watch me!" says Merritt. "I'll use my wonderful hypnotic power and you'll see the serpent crawl into the bag at my command, to be easily transported to this moral and elevating show for exhibition as an example of the power of mind over matter."

"All right, professor," says the captain. "But if you'll take my advice you'll stow those shore-going tops and get into working rig before you tackle him."

"Merritt sported contemptuously at the suggestion and we started for the ship. When we got on board he made a little speech before he went into the hold, telling the sailors about his wonderful hypnotic power and how he would exercise it to charm the serpent which was preventing their worthy captain from reaping the rewards of his arduous toil and his hardihood in having braved the perils of the vasty deep.

"I knew what he would try to do, for I had seen him work it before. The way to get one of those big snakes is to cover his head with a bag, and then he'll crawl in himself to get into the dark, which is a serpent's idea of safety. The more you prod 'em the faster they'll crawl, and that was the time when Merritt always made passes with his hands and muttered gibberish to impress the spectators. He started in according to program as soon as he located the snake, which was half hidden among a lot of casks. The snake carried out his part and struck at the opened bag which Merritt held out to him, but instead of striking his head in he grabbed it with his teeth, and as Merritt held on he drew him back among the barrels and there was a pretty fight. Merritt was quick enough to get a strangle hold around the snake's neck and then it kept him busy keeping out of his coils. The captain hadn't lied much about the size of the python—it was about 30 feet long—and Merritt didn't have time to use any incantation, although considerable forcible language floated up through the hatchway. They wiped the deck with each other for about 20 minutes, and Merritt had been bumped against pretty nearly every cask in the hold before he finally succeeded in drawing the sack over the snake's head. Then it was easy, and in spite of his lack of breath the showman in Merritt asserted itself. He put the sack on the floor, and with one foot on the neck of it he prodded the snake's body with the other while he made mysterious passes with his hands until the tip of the tail disappeared. When the sack was securely tied up the python was hoisted on deck, and Merritt, his clothing torn and soiled with pith and the miscellaneous oily and sticky things which made up the ship's cargo, climbed up after it.

"Did you see me?" he asked proudly, throwing out his chest. "Did you observe the wonderful hypnotic power which overcame the progress of the serpent?"

TRISTRAM SPEAKER RECEIVES BIG SALARY

Tris Speaker of Boston Americans.

Tris Speaker is thirty years old, stands five feet eleven inches in his shoes and weighs a shade over 180 pounds. He hails from Texas, where he began his professional baseball career eight years ago.

In 1908 he joined the ranks of the American league with Boston, and has played on that team ever since, batting (with the exception of his first year, when he played only 32 games) an average of over .300 each year, his poorest being .269 and his best .353 in 1912.

His average for the five years of regular play is .345. He is left-handed both in batting and throwing. He started in the Texas league with a salary of $65 a month and has just been re-engaged by the Boston Americans at what amounts to $18,500 a year on a two-year contract.

Christy Mathewson gets $15,000; Ty Cobb, $12,500; Tinker, $12,000; Wagner and Evers, $10,000 each. The highest salary paid in the old days of baseball was to John Ward, who was accredited with receiving the then phenomenal salary of $4,000. Rusien, that star pitcher, at his best received only $3,200. Players then considered this big money.

FINES PLASTERED ON BURKE

Tigers' Coach Relates Tale of Reversed Decision in Kansas City—Milwaukee Gaze.

Being plastered with a fine by an umpire never caused "Jimmy" Burke, the Tigers' coach, any worry.

"In my years on the baseball field I dare say I have been fined $1,000," declared "Jimmy" the other day. "I believe I have been fined more than any player ever in professional ranks. I was once handed a $100 plaster by an umpire in Milwaukee.

"It was like this:

"I was managing the Kansas City team and we were performing before 7,000 or 8,000 persons one Fourth of July. Mike Cantillon was manager of the Brewers and along about the sixth inning, with the score mighty close, two Brewers were on the bases when a pitched ball grazed the batsman's club and rolled to the stands.

"The two runners came home and I rushed in protesting. I pointed out that the ball hit the batsman and the umpire moved the men back. Just then Cantillon ran on to the field and declared that it was a wild pitch and the ball had never hit the bat.

"The umpire hesitated and Cantillon shouted that the people would certainly kill him if the two runners were not allowed to score. The umpire changed his decision and told me that the ball had struck the catcher's mitt—and not the bat.

"I raved, tore my hair, kicked up the sod and carried on in other ways, but to no avail.

"Finally I led my team from the field and then—there was a riot.

"The league officials upheld the umpire and fined me. I had to pay. And that was one fine I didn't deserve."

SKETCH OF JAMES LAVENDER

Successful Spit-Ball Pitcher of Chicago Cubs, at One Time Was Slated for Montreal.

James Lavender, the successful spit-ball pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, was born just twenty-seven years ago in Montezuma, Ga., the son of well-to-do parents. Jimmy was given a good education in the public school of that town. At the age of fifteen he went to the Gordon institute, a military academy at Barnsville, Ga. Here Jimmy was trained as a soldier, which accounts today for his military bearing. At the academy Lavender played very little baseball, but was strong at football. After graduation, however, Lavender devoted himself wholly to baseball and became so proficient at pitching that he tried his luck with the Augusta club of the South Atlantic league, in 1906, where he was a teammate of Nap Rucker. In 1907 he played with the Danville club of the Virginia league. The Athletic club bought him and then sold him, without trial, to the Holyoke club of the Connecticut league. In 1908 the Boston National club drafted him and turned him over to the Providence club. He played with the latter club in 1908-10-11, when he was drafted by the Chicago club. After the 1912 training trip the Chicago club tried to ship Lavender to Montreal without first giving Providence a chance to reclaim him—a violation of baseball law, which compelled the national commission to conceal the transfer to Montreal. The Chicago club then decided to retain Lavender—a fortunate thing for them, as he quickly developed into a winning pitcher and, virtually single-handed, put the Cubs into the race that year.

Umpires Must Report.

The umpires of the International league will be required to furnish detailed reports of all games this season. They will be supplied with a printed form to be filled out and mailed to the league office immediately after each game. Hereafter, when the playing time of a game is two hours or more the umpire must explain in his daily report the reasons for delay. He must also report all troubles and disputes with players, stating fully what they say and do. The back of the report sheet contains a list of rules and regulations on deportment for the arbiters, the president's interpretation of certain playing rules and other instructions for the guidance of the umpire.

Don't Want Tinker. Charley Ebbets says he would not want to have Joe Tinker on his team now. "I believe the feeling against Tinker has faded," said Ebbets. "The fans of Brooklyn don't want to have anything to do with him."

Accommodate 40,000 Persons. The new home of the New York Highlanders, which will be ready for the 1915 season, will accommodate 40,000 persons.

PLAYERS ARE SUPERSTITIOUS

Men in Ranks and Many Managers Have Their Little Peculiarities—Dialize Score Board.

Frank Chance, manager of the New York Yankees, is considered the most superstitious leader in the major leagues. The worst thing he can conceive is to see the score board during a game. If he accidentally sees the score board he is sure to change. He has had scoreboards in two parks moved so that he could not see them from his bench.

Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington Americans, is said to be the least superstitious of the managers, yet if he dreams that a pitcher is batted hard that pitcher is kept out of the game for a few days. He says he isn't superstitious, but he can't afford to take chances.

Jimmie Sheppard, formerly with the Chicago Cubs, but this year manager of the Cleveland American association team, is a believer in signs and omens. He always goes to bat in a certain way. The same holds true of his manner of walking to and from the club house before and after a game.

Most every ball player is superstitious about barrels and hay. A load of empty barrels is good luck, a load of barrels filled with anything is unlucky, a load of loose hay is lucky, and a load of baled hay is unlucky. The worst luck in the world follows the sight of a cross-eyed person.

Dave Gregg, the younger brother of Veran Gregg of the Naps, has been turned back by Manager Birmingham once more. He goes to Spokane.

President Thomas of the Cubs has announced that the Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics will play an exhibition game at Toledo on June 23.

Frank Gilhooley, for whom President Farrell of New York paid Montreal $12,000, will be given every chance to show why it was a crafty speculation.

Jack Dunn, manager of the Baltimore Orioles, has gathered up a fast bunch of players this year and believes his team will outclass the Baltimore Fed outfield.

Maurice Rath and Chink Mattick are former big leaguers playing with Kansas City. Both ex-White Sox have greatly improved and may return to the big show.

Dick Egan had the distinction of playing before the king of England and the squire of Flatbush within two months. No other player in any league can lay claim to any such record.

Scott, the Red Sox infielder from St. Paul, has had batting marks of .266, .307 and .269 for the past three seasons at Youngstown and St. Paul, and has batted for .349, .347 and .362 fifty seven work.

Joe Sugden, the old catcher, is chief scout for President Hedges of the Browns.

Jean Dubuc has been with the Detroit Tigers only a short time, but he is now the veteran of the staff.

Miller, Wilson, Butler and Dolan, all former Pirates, are delivering in great style for the St. Louis Cards.

A Cleveland (O.) sporting writer, Frank Rostock of the Press, picks Washington as a possible pennant winner this season.

Bobby Lowe, the veteran infielder, who retired some years ago, is coach of the Washington and Jefferson university baseball team.

John Brodie Williams, the Detroit Tigers' Hawaiian pitcher, never had a pair of shoes on his feet until he was sixteen years old.

Dave Gregg, the younger brother of Veran Gregg of the Naps, has been turned back by Manager Birmingham once more. He goes to Spokane.

President Thomas of the Cubs has announced that the Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics will play an exhibition game at Toledo on June 23.

The ONLOOKER

HENRY HOWLAND

Too Wiserome

I'd like to be among the few Who, needing rest, may be at ease; I mean those lucky people who May turn from duty when they please— The ones who, feeling weariness, May knock off early for the day And have no fear that pitiless Taskmasters will reduce their pay.

I'd like to have the right to let Some other who was under me Remain at work to stew and fret While I went roving carelessly.

I'd like to hold an office which Might be left to another's care, While I sought pleasure with the rich Or sat at blissful ease somewhere.

But I have noticed that the men Who have the privilege I lack, Who may depart, not caring when Their interests shall call them back— I've noticed that those who possess This privilege, which seems sublime, Are overcome with weariness About three-quarters of the time.

CANDID OPINION.

If the average man thought as much of his reputation as the average woman thinks of her complexion, rascality would soon go out of fashion.

It frequently happens that a woman worries a great deal over the question of calling on another woman who doesn't care in the least whether she calls or not.

It seems to be impossible to get egotism and the sense of humor to agree to be companions.

Fine feathers may not make fine birds, but it is rather difficult to be enthusiastic over a plucked chicken.

Lack of neatly fitting clothes does not make the statesman.

For some reason a girl always thinks every fellow who proposes to her is a hero.

What He Might Say. "What!" cried the speaker, who had worked himself up to a fine frenzy. "What, gentlemen, I ask you, would Thomas Jefferson say if he could drop in here today? What would the father of Democracy say if he was here at this moment to—"

"I think," yelled a little man who sat in the rear end of the hall, "he would say you ought to get acquainted with the subjunctive mood."

UNDISMAYED.

"And what," asked the anxious girl, "did father say?"

"He denied my petition," replied the handsome young attorney, "but, never mind, sweetheart, I shall at once appeal on a writ of error, and carry the case up to your mother."

Poor Kind of Sport. "I can't understand," she said after she had witnessed the opening game, "why people think baseball is interesting."

"That," he replied, "is because you don't understand the fine points of the game."

"But how can there be any fun in watching a game where nobody has to be carried out all covered with blood and where there is no danger that the place will be pulled by the police?"

Her Grief. "What's the matter, darling? You look as if some great sorrow had come to you."

"Mrs. Watterson came over to see the baby this morning and she insisted that he looked the very image of you."

He Couldn't Help It. "I have to laugh every time I see that man."

"He can't help his looks."

"I know; but his wife thinks every other woman is trying to lure him away from her."

Imagination. "That poet has a wonderful imagination, hasn't he?"

"I should say he had. I'll bet he could develop a case of hay fever by merely looking at a painted stalk of ragweed in a painted field."

A Tribute. "I know a lovely chapman For whom my love grows day by day; She has a soft and winning tone, And always looks the other way."

Her Chance. "How many chances out of a hundred do you think a pretty girl has of getting married?"

"A million, if she wants them."

TIGERS HUMBLLED BY THE ATHLETICS

Philadelphia, Pa., May 23.—The Athletics today tumbled the league leading Detroit Tigers 8 to 5, by hitting the ball freely and in the pinches, piling up a total of 11 hits off Daus. The Tigers early in the game drove Eddie Plank from the hill, but could do little with bush.

WATCHING FOR BOMB HURLERS

Philadelphia, May 23.—Is a three-time pennant winner and world's champion baseball team a good money-making proposition?

Ninety-nine out of every 100 fans would venture the opinion that if there is any money to be made in baseball a team occupying such an enviable position in the baseball world should be the one to reap the richest rewards that the baseball fields afford. Yet the fact is that the Philadelphia Athletics, champions of the American league and monarchs of the baseball world, are playing to slim and disinterested crowds this year.

YOUNGSTER SHOOTS HIMSELF IN LEG

Danville, Ill., May 23.—Dale Delaney aged twelve years, of Fairmont, today shot himself with a revolver in the fleshy portion of his leg, to keep from going to school. Fear of not passing an examination caused the act. Later it was learned that he had succeeded in "passing" without examination.

er City are wondering at this strange condition of affairs. The Athletics are admittedly the best team in the country today. They have one of the greatest infields ever put together, a strong outfield, exceptional catchers and a great pitching staff. Added to this they have Connie Mack for manager.

They have everything that should go to make a big paying attraction, yet this year the fans of the Quaker City, tired of seeing a sure-thing team, as kinds of reasons have been advanced, but not any seem to fit the case. It has been suggested that the fans are tired of seeing a sure-thing team, as they regard it, in action. This has been true in the past, but hardly holds good now.

The Athletics are not at the top of the head, and are having strenuous struggles to get there. They are playing the finest kind of ball and earning every victory, yet the crowds have not been forthcoming. There is no Federal league competition in this city, and the Phillies have not been going at any more rapid rate than the Athletics. There it cannot be set down to competition.

Last fall the Athletics handed their world's series ticket arrangements finely, and there was no dissatisfaction in the Quaker City, as there has been in the past in some of the cities. It is patent, therefore, that the failure of the fans to respond to the Athletics is due not to any ill will that they might have over the ticket matters.

Whatever it is, the officials of the local club are plainly worried, and are at a loss to place their hands on the trouble. It is one of those inexplicable problems that those who cater to the public frequently encounter.

ENGLISH SHIP CARRIES BIG SAIL

Gosport, Eng., May 23.—Through the courtesy of Sir Thomas Lipton the first inspection was permitted yesterday of Shamrock IV, in Camper & Nicholson's yard. Charles E. Nicholson, designer of the yacht, which will try for the America's cup, assisted in laying bare some of her secrets, but refused to disclose all notably her sail area.

The form of Shamrock's hull, however, makes it evident that the sail will be considerably exceeded the 8,000 and odd square feet which, it is reported the Resolute will carry. If pitched against the Resolute, Shamrock IV will not only have to beat her, but beat her probably two or three minutes, to win the cup. The following figures of the Shamrock's dimensions may be regarded as authoritative:

Length over all, 110 feet; length on the water, 75 feet; greatest beam, 22 feet; draught without centerboard, 13.9 feet. With the centerboard down to its full extent, the draft will be ten feet additional.

GRAND RAPIDS MAN SUNSTROKE VICTIM.
Grand Rapids, May 23.—John A. Manville, aged 68, Grand Rapids piano merchant, suffered a sunstroke eight miles north of Grand Rapids Tuesday. He was overcome while repairing an automobile tire and was found by a road building crew. He had lain by the roadside two hours. His condition is serious. This is the first sunstroke of the season in western Michigan.

John White is visiting with friends in Marinette.

TO RIGHT WRONG SAYS PRESIDENT

New York, May 23.—President Wilson will not lift his hand from the Mexican situation until he is assured that the wrongs suffered by the great mass of the people there are in process of satisfactory adjustment. In his opinion, these wrongs originate in the present inequitable distribution of the land and the efforts of its owners and foreign adventures to exploit it.

He will insist on a settlement of the land question by constitutional means as a preliminary to the establishment of an orderly and righteous government.

These are the ideas which Mr. Wilson has set up to guide him in his Mexican view which appears in the current number of the Saturday Evening Post. They are an expansion of his recent declaration at the funeral of the men who died at Vera Cruz that United States has gone into Mexico for the sake of humanity.

They are the President's answer to the query as to what he proposes to do after Huerta has been eliminated. He declares they will be carried out no matter what the result of the mediation of his differences with Gen. Huerta.

"My ideal," the President says, "is an orderly and righteous government; but by passion is for the submerged 85 per cent of the people of that republic, who are now struggling toward liberty."

"It is a curious thing that every demand for the establishment of order in Mexico takes into consideration, not order for the benefit of the people of Mexico, the great mass of the population, but order for the benefit of the old time regime, for the aristocrats, for the vested interests, for the men who are responsible for this very condition of disorder."

"No one asks for order because order will help the masses of the people to get a portion of their rights and their land; but all demand is so that the great owners of property, the overlords, the hidalgos, the men who have exploited that rich country for their own selfish purposes, shall be able to continue their processes undisturbed by the protests of the people from whom their wealth and power have been obtained."

"The dangers that beset the republic are held to be the individual and corporate troubles of these men, not the aggravated indignities that have been heaped on this vasty greater section of the population that are now struggling to recover by force what has always been theirs by right."

"They want order—the old order; but I say to you that the old order is dead. It is my part, as I see it, to aid in composing those differences, so far as I may be able, that the new order which will have its foundation on human liberty and human rights, shall prevail."

BOX TIMBER IS BOUGHT IN MEXICO

Houghton Michigan, May 23.—Cigar boxes are such common articles of commerce that people usually pay little attention to them, give little heed to the fact that their manufacture must constitute a considerable industry; and undoubtedly few people would consider that the cigar box is an indication that the proposed or probable war with Mexico is something that need not be given too much importance.

As a matter of fact, the bulk of the timber from which cigar boxes are manufactured comes from Mexico. It still is coming from Mexico in quantities, according to W. R. Cairns of Minneapolis, who has supplied copper country cigar manufacturers with boxes for the last dozen year. Mr. Cairns was in Houghton yesterday on his annual visit to the William J. Kelly cigar factory. He says that his company has no difficulty in getting all of the Mexican red cedar it needs.

Something About Cigar Boxes.
Few people may have noticed it but most cigar boxes are made of red cedar wood. Mr. Cairns says that red cedar is the ideal wood for cigar boxes, because it helps to preserve the flavor of the tobacco. He has been in the cigar box business for twenty-three years and in that time the manufacturers have been getting their lumber from Cuba and Mexico. He does not remember of any red cedar cut in the United States for cigar boxes in that period.

The Cuban red cedar comes to the United States now only in small quantities, because the island supply is decreasing and the Cuban cigar manufacturers absorb the entire product. The United States looks to Mexico for its supply. Red cedar comes from tropical swamps and the trees are so gnarled and knotty that they produce lumber in not more than six foot lengths. The logs are sawed in New York and the box manufacturers receive the lumber in inch sizes and cut it up to the required size for boxes.

Mr. Cairns says that he cannot explain how it is that war conditions in Mexico, have not affected the cigar box trade, but he knows that they have not.

EDISON SEES NEW OCHEP

Orange, N. J.—The futures uses of electricity that will benefit humanity most will be through its medical application.

A new source of electrical supply will be direct from coal without need for steam boilers.

These are predictions of Thomas A. Edison, whose inventive genius is responsible for the widespread application of electricity.

"Electricity has been the principal factor in the enormous progress of civilization in the last thirty-five years," Edison said. "But greater and more wonderful uses of it are held by the future."

Get Current Direct.

"It must be possible to generate electricity direct from coal," he said. "When that is accomplished we will record a new epoch. It may come tomorrow. We are working on it now."

"Considerable is being done to reveal the medical functions of electricity," he continued, "but its possibilities in this direction are practically unknown."

"This search work must be done secretly, as the thousands of quacks now applying electricity to humans for all sorts of ills seize on every advance announcement from scientists to advertise their claims."

"I'll know more about our bodies it will be difficult to tell what can be done with electricity as a medical aid."

"I once asked Du Bois Raymond, psychologist, what makes my finger move. It isn't heat, light, electricity, magnetism. What is it? Raymond had studied it thirty years, but he couldn't answer me."

Sleeps More Now.

Edison now sleeps about five and a half hours a night. For years he only slept four. Mrs. Edison, he explained doesn't permit him to work all night any more.

His daily diet does not exceed a pound and a half of food. He smokes cigars and chews tobacco, but has no cigarettes.

He is sixty-seven and says he is enjoying rewards of right living and moderate eating.

He reads regularly 118 scientific and trade periodicals and five daily newspapers and keeps in intimate touch with every form of human activity, including baseball, golf and the stage.

Kalamazoo, May 23.—Derk De Young, a resident of this city, is officially dead, according to a discovery he made at the health office, although he says he is sure he is alive.

He found he was dead while looking up the record of his son's burial. In some way the name of the father had been substituted for that of his son, and because he cannot furnish proof that he is not the one dead and that the son is still alive, the father has been unable to secure the insurance on his son's life.

Health officers are attempting to straighten out the tangle.

SAFETY FIRST CAR IS HERE

The Northwestern "Safety First" instruction car arrived in Escanaba yesterday morning and will remain here for a week, while special signal instructions are given to employees of the company. C. G. Stecher of Chicago is in charge of the car and while here a series of lectures will be given, illustrated with views of the various signals in use throughout the Northwestern System, together with means of caution to be employed in averting accidents.

Attendance is compulsory for all engineers, trainmen and yardmen, but the instruction gradually is being extended to other employees of the road whose work requires knowledge of the signals.

This car is the only one of its kind employed by the Northwestern. It visits every place of importance on all of the divisions. This is the second visit that has been made to Escanaba. The car was here last February.

Operators, train dispatchers, station agents, and bridge and section foremen have been enthusiastically taking part in the work.

The signal instruction is part of the "safety first" movement, which was first started by the Northwestern system, and which has been followed by many of the railroads throughout the country, with good results.

At the present time there are in use on the various systems of the Northwestern line a number of interlocking signal houses equipped with automatic block signals, which are used for both single and double tracks. At first it was believed that this system would be practical only for double track systems, but, according to Mr. Stecher, it now is being

A Stories of Success

SAVINGS ACCOUNT

is the first step towards Independence

"A born financier," said the world. "Saving my pennies," said the man himself. He began life in absolute want, but when the pennies began to jingle in his pockets from the sale of papers on the streets of New Bedford, Mass., young Rogers made up his mind that never again would he go hungry and cold and without clothes if saving part of his earnings could provide for the proverbial "rainy day." So, when still a newsboy, he started a savings account and in later life freely attributed the wonderful success of his life to this beginning, inasmuch as the pennies in the bank were ready for investment in the Pennsylvania oil fields when the opportunity to place them in that industry knocked at his door. H. H. Rogers' tremendous power in the world of finance through his Standard Oil holdings is American history—why should there not be a similar place awaiting you if you followed his early example of frugality, industry and saving the pennies? It is never too late to begin a savings account—DO IT TODAY.
